FFIEC's New Social Media Guidance

The use of social media has not only increased in the last few years for the general public, but financial institutions are also increasingly turning to social media for marketing and information distribution purposes. Facebook, Twitter, Yelp, and LinkedIn are among the various types of social media financial institutions are now using. Although social media is an influential tool in generating new business and interacting with customers, the use of social media may impact a financial institution's risk profile.

To address the risks associated with activities conducted via social media, in December 2013 the Federal Financial Institution Examination Council (FFIEC) issued supervisory guidance on the topic. The FFIEC's guidance follows its proposed guidance on the same topic issued in January 2013. This presentation will address the FFIEC's new social media guidance, including recommended components of a social media risk management program.

Revisions to CRA Community Development Questions & Answers

The federal banking agencies recently adopted final amendments to the Community Reinvestment Act Interagency Questions and Answers (Q&As). The final amendments revise five existing Q&As dealing with community development (CD) activities that are intended to spur lenders to seek more CD lending and investment opportunities. The agencies also added two new Q&As addressing how examiners will consider CD lending and investment activities in an institution's CRA performance evaluation. Join us for a discussion of these Q&As and how they may impact your institution.
