Presented by Counsel for Bankers' Compliance Group®
ALDRICH & BONNEFIN, PLC

Through their Community Reinvestment Act (CRA) regulations, the federal banking agencies “encourage” their supervised banks to meet the credit needs of individuals and businesses in their communities, including low- and moderate-income (LMI) individuals and LMI geographies, consistent with safe and sound operations. While the CRA regulations have remained constant over the past several years, the banking agencies did issue revisions in July 2016 to the CRA Interagency Questions and Answers. Among other things, the revisions provide additional guidance regarding alternative systems for delivering retail banking services, certain community development activities and qualitative factors for evaluating an institution’s CRA performance.

Join us as we recap the changes made to the CRA Q&As, delve into what qualifies as “community development” and provide ways to identify community development activities, including some CD resources. We also will discuss recent noteworthy examination findings.

TOPICS TO BE COVERED

- Overview of selected CRA Q&As
- Community development issues
- Keeping your CRA public file current
- Selected issues from recent CRA performance evaluations
