Fair lending is a broad legal and compliance concept that protects equal access to credit in the United States. At its root, fair lending means that similarly situated applicants and borrowers should receive similar treatment. Equality of results is not required but equality of process is.

Financial institutions and other lenders are experiencing increased pressure from regulators, not least of which is the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, to enhance their fair lending processes. Fair lending does not happen by accident; rather, it is a mandated, ongoing process. Every regulated lender must have a written fair lending program in place, addressing every aspect of the lending process, from marketing and underwriting to pricing and servicing. Fair lending is not limited to residential lending – it extends to commercial and consumer lending of all types. We recently have seen close scrutiny of minimum loan amounts, discretionary credit pricing and redlining.

This 90-minute Webinar will provide an update on fair lending laws and processes for lenders of all types. A detailed written outline will be provided (not just sketchy PowerPoint slides). Plenty of time will be allowed for questions and answers. Some familiarity with lending processes will be assumed.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Recent fair lending enforcement actions
- Disparate impact versus disparate treatment: what are they and why you need to know
- Fair lending red flags
- Discretionary credit pricing
- How to minimize fair lending scrutiny of your institution
- Importance of fair lending self-assessments
- The role of technical compliance with Regulation B

A CD also will be available for purchase!
